Employers reminded to guarantee Health and Safety at workplaces

05.02.2015

From 02nd February to 13th March 2015, employers from the Private Sector are being trained on the Labour Law and implementing Ministerial Orders, they have been recalled to ensure that at workplaces Health and Safety for workers should be guaranteed.

Nkundabakura Karima Javan; a Chief Labour Inspector in the Ministry of Public Service and Labour, reminded employers that the effectiveness and efficiency of the workers depends on their treatment. "In order to protect the life and health of employees, work premises are to be kept clean and equipped with health's safety and protection facilities. (Art.90 of Labour Code) in order to protect the life and health of employees, work premises are to be kept clean and equipped with health's safety and protection facilities. An employer is required to ensure the health, safety and welfare of all persons working in his/her workplace. Employer is required to provide workers with work premises and tools appropriate for the work; assure workers of the reliable and timely renewal of collective and individual means of protection; conduct a risk and hazard analysis and take effective protective measures; inform employees about any risks likely to result from the use of technologies and any other imminent danger; ensure that safety information is displayed in readable language in all premises; make no deductions from an employee's remuneration or charge an employee in respect of anything done or provided in pursuance of the order on Occupational Safety and Health (OSH); and notify the labour inspectors of any dangerous occurrence or occupational accident within four days of such incident." disclosed Karima while addressing his remarks to employers.

Yesterday (04th February 2015) function brought together Private Sector employers from Kicukiro District.
